It was a tremendous bonfire and a costly one. The St. Nicholas Park Hotel was burned to the ground and a girl who slept upstairs lost her life. She was Rosie Raubenbuehler, a servant of the family. The five members of the family escaped by the narrowest chances.

All day yesterday it was crowded with students, whose yells made the bluff ring with queer echoes. It is not unlikely that it was their hot enthusiasm that set it on fire. It fed upon hundreds of cigarettes that were tossed here and there about the old frame building. That one of them had fallen into a crevice, where it smoldered undiscovered until it had gained fatal headway, is the most reasonable xplanation of the fire. It was 2:15 o'clock a.m. when Policeman Krowi, patrolling the hill, saw smoke and a gleam of fire playing about the base of the hotel on the slope. He climbed the stairs and shouted with all his might. But there had been bers of the subcommittee were present except so much shouting that day and night nobody heard him, or if anybody did they paid no attention. When in front of the hotel he saw that tion. When in front of the hotel he saw that it was on fire. Already the door was blocked. He could not get into the house, but saw light shining through one of the third-story windows. Krowl picked up a stone and threw it through the window. That did it. Behind the window upstairs Mrs. Charlotte Grassmuck, the aged mother of the two hotel keepers, was counting up the receipts of the day. She had just stacked up $500, the New York counsel for the Reading getting near the bottom of her stack, when crash went the window and she heard the po-

They at once became obstreperous and when Gienwood was reached one of the men went into the ladies' coach, began using profane language, flourished his revolver in a menacing manner and threatened to kill every one in the car. Conductor Smith grabbed the man and pulled him into the smoker.

This angered his brothers, and they rushed upon the conductor, at the same time drawing their pistols and knives.

His brakeman at once came to his assistance and the fight was precipitated. In the melee both the conductor and brakeman sustained serious injuries.

A gentleman hearing the shots and screams jumped from his seat in the ladies' coach and rang the "riot bell." The train was stopped and the engineer and fireman dismounted from their cab and proceeded to the smoker with huge clubs, where they beat the Williams brothers until they were almost insensible and then threw them off the train. Several passengers were badly injured and the floor of the smoker was red with blood. It is not known whether any of the Williams boys were killed or not

MR. BLAINE'S ILLNESS.

Alarming rumors concerning the health of who say unhesitatingly that Mr. Blaine is not seriously ill, but is simply indisposed and will be able to continue his usual habits in a few days. Information regarding the true situation is very difficult to obtain. It is impossible to learn the details of his ailments owing to the extreme retirence of his household.

When a Star reporter inquired as to Mr. Blaine's condition this morning the attendant who came to the door informed him that Mr. Blaine was much better. He had spent a very comfortable night and was resting very easily. Continuing, the attendant said: "The family sickness in the papers this morning. They cannot understand how such reports could have obtained circulation, and wish it stajed that they are without foundation."

Mr. Blaine, since his return to Washington in October, with recommendation.
